

Joint Exploitation of Personal and Premises Surveillance Video

New cutting-edge software allows DHS to examine video footage and identify suspects through face- and body recognition, including in cases where the footage is low quality.

CINA-developed software will allow for greatly improved identification of criminals from a variety of video sources.